[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Springfield, Ill., April 23.—With Roger Sullivan in control the big democratic state convention opened its sessions here this noon when P. P. Morris of Watseka gave his address as temporary chairman. The organization was quickly perfected under the plans laid down by Sullivan and the convention adjourned until ten thirty this afternoon, when the real business will be commenced.

FIVE COUNTRIES ENTERED IN RACE

Twenty-two Automobiles Are Entered for the Briarcliff Cup Race.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, April 23.—Over a thirty-mile course, situated in Westchester county, twenty-two speedy automobiles, representing America, Italy, France, Germany and Austria, will tomorrow contest for the Briarcliff trophy. The event, which will be the longest in length, bids fair to be quite as spectacular as the Vanderbilt cup race.

Oldfield, Roberts and others of the world's most prominent and daring drivers in the latest racing game are represented in the entry list and have been preparing and tuning up their machines for the past two weeks, and in practice have repeatedly covered laps at speeds approaching a mile a minute.

Unless there are one or more eleven-hour withdrawals, twenty-two cars will start in the dash around the ten-lap circuit in an attempt to bring an auto championship and trophy to their country. As the teams stand at present America will be represented by eleven cars, Italy six, France three, and Germany and Austria one each.

The course is full of sharp turns and grades, and while no great speed can be made, as in the Vanderbilt cup race, the spectators will probably witness many thrilling spurts and brushes on the level stretches. On the comparatively straight stretches (there are no real straightaways) fairly good time can be made, but owing to the many turns and curves in the road, it is believed that the average speed for the race will not exceed forty-five miles an hour. But to make this average will require the most careful manipulation of the steering wheel. The race is scheduled to start as soon as daylight appears tomorrow morning, and will probably last until 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The time limit for finishing is 2:30 o'clock. At that hour all the machines will on the course will be stopped by the guards in or

EDWARD'S SUBJECTS HONOR ST. GEORGE

St. George for Merrie England Has Been Cry on April 23d Since 1344.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, April 23.—This is St. George's day and in the United Kingdom, Canada, Australia, South Africa and every other part of the world where a handful of Englishmen can be gathered together it is safe to say there will be some observance of the name day of England's patron saint.

St. George for Merrie England! has been the cry on April 23 since 1344. Though St. George was born in Ephraim, Co. Louth, he became known in England at an early date in his career and while the calendars of the Greek and Latin churches claimed that he shared April 23 with other saints, a Saxon Martyrology declares that the day was dedicated to him alone.

After the conquest his festival was celebrated yearly. It was in 1344 that the feast was made memorable by the creation of the noble Order of St. George, or the Blue Garter, the institution being inaugurated by a grand feast in which forty of England's bravest knights of the list, amongst the foreign chivalry attracted by the proclamation of the challenge through France, Germany, Flanders and other parts of Europe.

CARDINAL LOGUE IS COMING TO AMERICA

Head of Catholic Church in Ireland Due to Arrive in New York Friday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, April 23.—Catholics of New York and vicinity, and especially the Irish element of that faith, are preparing a great reception in honor of Cardinal Logue, the head of the Catholic church in Ireland, who is due to arrive here tomorrow. Cardinal Logue is coming to attend the great celebration of the centennial of the archbishopric of New York. He will be the central figure of a notable assembly of prelates that will include archbishops, bishops and priests from many parts of the United States and Canada.

His Eminence Cardinal Michael Logue, archbishop of Armagh, has been Primate of all Ireland since 1857, prior to which time he had been coadjutor to the late Rhinquo. Cardinal Logue is a man of great learning and is renowned for his piety. He does not mix in Irish politics, but takes an interest in the country's welfare and knows how to make his influence felt among the people. His influence is a blessing to the Irish people who were recently illustrated in a striking manner. He objected to the policy of one of the Sinn Fein party organs which editorially spoke in favor of forcing the priests out of politics. Cardinal Logue denounced the paper, and his mere denunciation was sufficient to drive the paper's readers away to such an extent that it was found no longer profitable to run it.

Since announcement was made that Cardinal Logue was to come to this country he has received many invitations to visit Philadelphia, Chicago, Baltimore and other cities. His Eminence, however, is a man of much work and little play, and cares little for traveling or holiday making. It is therefore very doubtful if he will extend his American visit beyond this city, especially as he will have an opportunity of meeting here, Cardinal Gibbons, Mgr. Fulton and other eminent churchmen whom he might desire to visit.

BANKS AND BANKING DISCUSSED TODAY

Ex-Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw Addresses Car- olina Bankers.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Columbia, S. C., April 23.—The assembly room of the Carolina Hotel was filled with prominent financiers this morning when President W. D. Morgan called to order the annual convention of the South Carolina Bankers' association. Mayor Baumer and ex-Governor Heyward welcomed the visitors in cordial addresses and the response was by ex-Governor J. C. Sheppard of Edgefield. The address of President Morgan and the annual reports of Secretary-Treasurer Wilson of Spartanburg, and of the other officers and of committees occupied the greater part of the initial session.

The afternoon program provided for an address by ex-Secretary of the Treasury Leslie M. Shaw on "Needed Currency Legislation," and by John P. Ficken, president of the South Carolina Loan and Trust company of Charleston, on "Islands of the Principles of Sound Banking." A reception at the Hibernian Country club is the social feature arranged for this evening.

NATAL DAY OF BARD OF AVON OBSERVED

William Shakespeare Was Born Three Hundred and Forty-four Years Ago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, April 23.—The customary dramatic festival was held at Stratford-on-Avon today in celebration of Shakespeare's birthday anniversary. The old-world town was the Mecca for hundreds of admirers and devotees of the immortal bard, among the number being many celebrated literary and dramatic lights.

At present the various Shakespearean societies throughout the country are engaged in plans for the erection of a memorial which it is proposed to set up to commemorate the fourteenth of his death, which will occur in 1916. It is proposed to raise one million dollars, of which half is to be spent on the monument. A fine site in London has been selected for the monument in Park Crescent, adjoining Regent's Park and looking down the imposing vista of Portico Place.

Shakespeare Day at Stratford-on-Avon, April 23.—The three hundred and forty-fourth anniversary of the birth of William Shakespeare was observed with appropriate ceremonies today at the Edwin Forrest Home for retired players, at Holmshurst. Not only did the dozen veterans of the stage, who are now inmates of the home, take part in the celebration, but many of the actresses and actors who are playing at the Philadelphia playhouses journeyed to Holmshurst to help out the program, which included the presentation of scenes from several of Shakespeare's plays.

Julius Grabow, aged fifty-five, whose home is in Watertown, was drowned in the Wolf Creek near Gratiot last night. Grabow was bridge foreman for the St. Paul road which is building a new spile bridge between the depot and coal sheds at Gratiot and it is thought he slipped between the ties of the temporary bridge while going to the bunk car late last night. His body was found in the water near the bridge and it is probable he was not injured by his fall of twenty feet from the bridge he was unable to drag himself out onto the bank. He is married.

THIEVES BLOW SAFE AT CLARNO IN NIGHT

Knocked off Knobs And Inserted Their Nitro Glycerine—Secured Some Plunder.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Monroe, April 23.—Sometime during the night clever thieves blew the safe in the general store and post office of Ulrich, Schan, securing in the neighborhood of $200, fifty-six dollars of which belonged to Uncle Sam. The work was evidently done by experts as the knob on the door of the safe was first knocked off and then the nitro glycerine inserted, the entire door being blown off. The safe stood near a window and except for the broken door and one broken window there was no sign of any disturbance in the building. Sheriff Durst went from Monroe to inspect the premises and found on Illinois Central tracks a check which had evidently been thrown away as useless to the thieves. The store was closed at midnight last evening and not until this morning when the robbery was discovered.

ADMIRAL VERY PUT ON RETIRED LIST

Has a Long Record of Active Service —One of Ordnance Experts of Navy.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Washington, D. C., April 23.—Rear Admiral Samuel W. Vory, who for several years past has been on duty in the Hawaiian Islands as commandant of the Honolulu Naval station, was placed on the retired list today on account of age. Of the record-making number of high officers of the navy who retire this year, Rear Admiral Vory is the only one who was born in a foreign country. His father was captain of a famous Boston clipper ship, and Rear Admiral Vory was born in Liverpool, while his father's ship was at that port. His boyhood was spent in Massachusetts. Soon after the Civil war broke out he enlisted in the navy and he was on several ships sent after Confederate commerce destroyers. In later years he developed into one of the navy's foremost ordnance experts.

In 1880-82 Rear Admiral Vory had charge of the magnetic observations for the coast survey in Hudson bay and in Labrador, and the next year he was in charge of the naval expedition to observe the transit of Venus in Patagonia. He saw active service in Cuban waters during the war with Spain and later he commanded a gunboat in the Philippines. He took command at Honolulu on July 20, 1906, and was given the rank of rear admiral two days later. Captain Corwin H. Rees has been designated to succeed Rear Admiral Vory as commandant of the Honolulu station.

LOCAL OPTION LAW GOOD SAYS COURT

Illinois Supreme Court Hands Down Decision in the McBride Case.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Springfield, Ill., April 23.—The supreme court today returned a decision in the McBride case declaring that the new local option law passed last year was constitutional.

Upon this decision depended the effects of three saloon elections which had been held under the provisions of the present law and at least two and a half million people in Illinois who have lived in prohibition districts would perhaps have been put back into saloon territory if the supreme court had declared the law unconstitutional.

"Butch" Mosher.

Ernest Boyers, who has served several terms in state's prison and an associate who gives his name as William Sherman and claims to reside eighteen miles from Dixon, Ill., were placed up in an intoxicated condition by the police last evening and lodged in the city lock-up. When Sherman was searched a lady's gold watch attached to a handsome chain of the pattern generally worn by men was taken from him. When asked if the watch cost him thirty-five cents or more the hole said significantly that he had a way of getting them cheaper than that. The pair both pleaded guilty to drunkenness charges in municipal court this morning and in default of payment of fines of $1 and costs each went to the battle for 10 days. Patrick Tobin could not pay $2 and cents and went to jail for five days. William Byrne was given an opportunity to obtain his fine and costs of $3.10. J. Kyle of Milton for whom sentence was suspended yesterday afternoon became intoxicated again last evening and had to be locked up. Soon after his release this morning he again had to be dragged back to the cage. A man belonging to the railroad gang and giving his name as Stalburg was arrested this morning for drunkenness. "Butch" Mosher was found in a helpless state of intoxication, hung with signs and his face smeared with paint by some rude jokers, near the Denning carpenter shop on South Franklin street this forenoon. Officer John Brown had to call the patrol wagon to get him to the station.

WHAT NEW LAW WILL MEAN TO EMPLOYEES

Liability Law Which Was Signed by Roosevelt Will Enable Employees to Recover Damages For Injuries.

In signing the Sterling Liability bill, President Roosevelt has placed on the statutes a law that means much to employees of the big corporations. Among the features of this new law are the following salient points:

Makes railroads and common carriers liable for injury to employees as result of negligence of agents or of fellow employees.

Railroads are held responsible for injuries by reason of defect or insufficiency in equipment.

Any contract made with employee to enable company to become exempt from liability is void.

Carrier shall receive credit for contribution to fund in shape of insurance, relief, benefit or indemnity.

Action for damages must be started within two years after date of accident.

Before he signed it the President had attorney General Bonaparte carefully review the measure as to its constitutionality and in his opinion the attorney general indicated that the bill is confined in its scope to "common carriers by railroad" in distinction from the act declared unconstitutional by the Supreme court, which embraced "all common carriers engaged in interstate commerce and foreign commerce."

Reviews Court Decisions.
The attorney general then shows through court decisions and constitutional interpretations that this restriction does not make the act repugnant to the constitution but is in line with state statutes which have been upheld in the highest tribunals.

A conference on currency legislation was held today between the house and senate leaders and was attended by Speaker Cannon and Senator Aldrich. The judgement of the conference was that the program lately decided upon, can be put through.

Leaders Want Caucus.
This program calls for a caucus of the republican members of the house probably next week or the week following to determine the passage of a bill creating a commission to investigate thoroughly the currency subject and the financial situation of the country in general and the report on remedial legislation at the next session of congress.

It is further the desire of the house republican leaders to put through the Cleveland bill which embodies what are thought to be, the best features of the Aldrich bill and eliminates the provisions to which most objection has been made.

use a typewriter. But he was, and the immortal story of "Huckleberry Finn" was one of the first things written by the new machine.

Not long ago the following letter was discovered and published. It has since been recognized by Mr. Clemens as one that he wrote in 1875:

"Please do not use my name. Please do not even divulge the fact that I own a machine. I have entirely stopped using the typewriter for the reason that I never could write a letter with it to anybody without receiving a request by return mail that I would not only describe the machine but state what progress I made in the use of it."

"I don't like to write letters, and so I don't want people to know I own this curiosity-breeded little joker."

RELEASED HOUGHTON ON HIS PAYMENT OF

Of $100 Costs For His Driving Amos Horse Away Last Week.

William Houghton, who, while intoxicated took Parko Amos' horse at Evansville and drove himself home with it Sunday evening, leaving the animal at the Mallory farm a few rods beyond, settled with Mr. Amos out of court this week by paying the $50 reward offered for the capture of the offender and $50 more to cover costs. None of the parties to the case believed the man intended to permanently convert the nag to his use but the punk had cost them a lot of trouble and it was but right that he should pay for it.

BEACH DEMANDS HE HAVE JURY TRIAL

Recluse Captured By Sheriff Fisher on Farm Near Broadhead Yesterday Will Fight to Keep Out of Asylum.

Alexander Beach who was taken into custody by Sheriff L. U. Fisher and turned over to the Janesville police at the town of Spring Valley located about three and a half miles from Broadhead, yesterday, in response to complaints of neighbors who have maintained for many years that he is mentally unbalanced, will demand that the question of his sanity be determined by a jury. Mrs. Pember and Nazam who examined him this afternoon were inclined to favor such a plan and it is now up to Judge Sale to determine whether or not Beach shall have the trial. Beach lives on a 60 acre farm and his eccentric actions have made him feared by all his neighbors. He has been at Mendota twice and on another occasion, an unsuccessful effort was made to send him there.

THE TYPEWRITER AS IT EXISTED IN 1843.

A form of crude typewriter existed in Europe as early as the eighteenth century.

In America, France, England, in the first half of the nineteenth century, several patents were issued. But it was not until the Americans, Charles Thorber and A. E. Beach, began work on it in 1842 that it began to assume commercial importance as an idea.

Thorber simply had a set of types around a disk, but several years later Beach invented the basket of levers as we have it today. S. W. Francis added pneumatic action, and Thomas Hall the linked ribbon.

In 1847 Charles L. Sholes, Samuel W. Soule, and Charles Glidden, three Milwaukee men, made the first model out of which grew the famous Remington. Only Sholes had faith enough to stay with the proposition, and one model after another broke in actual service he had so far perfected it by 1873 that the Remington gun factory took it up. Then for another year expert mechanics worked to strengthen it, and in 1874 the first machine was put on the market.

The California Girl.
A New York woman was driving an automobile the other day when a snake fell from a tree into the machine. The "fair chauffeur" promptly braked and a collision with a farmer's wagon followed. If that misguiding serpent had fallen in a California girl's gasoline rig its skin would now be adorning her sombrero as a "but band."—Los Angeles Herald.

FORMER PREMIER OF BRITAIN DIES

SIR HENRY CAMPBELL-BANNERMAN PASSES AWAY.

LONG CAREER IS ENDED

He Began Holding Public Office in 1871 and Battled Successfully for Power and Principle.

London, Apr. 23.—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, former British premier, died Wednesday at his official residence, 10 Downing street. The end was peaceful.

The death of Sir Henry after a lingering illness of more than two months did not come as a surprise. Although the doctors' bulletins had not declared his condition critical, that fact was perfectly understood and the public had been expecting the announcement of his death at any hour during the past fortnight.

News Told by Bulletin. The news came in the form of the following bulletin:

"Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman passed peacefully. The cause of his death was heart failure."

"H. W. BURNETT."

In the death chamber when the premier breathed his last were his wife, Mrs. Campbell, who had acted as Sir Henry's host since the death of Lady Campbell-Bannerman, a little more than a year ago; Dr. Burnet, who was Campbell-Bannerman's personal physician, and who has been in constant attendance during his long illness, and Sir Henry's butler.

The funeral arrangements were completed Wednesday evening. There will be a funeral service in Westminster abbey at noon on April 27, attended by representatives of King Edward and Queen Alexandra, diplomats and members of parliament, etc., and the final interment will occur at Mole, Perthshire, beside the body of Sir Henry's wife, on the following day.

Campbell-Bannerman's Career. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman was born September 7, 1836. He was the youngest son of the late Sir James Campbell of Strathcarron, Forfarshire, some time lord provost of Glasgow. He assumed the additional name under the will of his maternal uncle, the late Henry Bannerman of Hutton Court, Kent, who bequeathed to him a large estate. He attended Glasgow university and Trinity college, Cambridge. In 1860 he married Charlotte, daughter of Maj. Gen. Sir Charles Bruce. She died in 1905, and from that — Sir Henry's decline in health may be dated.

For nearly 40 years he sat for the same seat—the Strirling burghs—and his record of office goes back to 1871, when he was financial secretary to the war office, which post he held a second time from 1880 to 1882.

"Scotch Sandbag," Said Irish.

During the next two years he was secretary to the admiralty and in 1884 he succeeded Sir George Trevelyan as Irish secretary, filling that office ably and unobtrusively until the fall of the Gladstone ministry in 1885. In spite of the fact that the Irishmen described him as "the Scotch sandbag," in the short government of 1886 he was secretary of war and to that post he returned under the last liberal government. He was chosen leader of the liberal opposition in succession to Sir William Harcourt in February, 1890. The hour was proved a stumbling block to the administration, but notwithstanding the differences between the liberal imperialists and other liberals over this question, a unanimous vote of confidence in his leadership was carried at a meeting of the liberal party at the Reform club in July, 1901.

Sir Henry became premier in 1905, and the election of that year gave him the largest majority ever given a British premier.

Minnesota Priest Is Drowned.

Minneapolis, Minn., Apr. 23.—Father J. H. Kiel of Holy Name parish, near Haines, was drowned Tuesday afternoon in Dittus lake. The priest, with Father Laventure of Minneapolis and Father McCarren were rowing in a small boat. In an exchange of seats a wave struck the craft, upsetting it.

LADIES IN JUDGES' STAND.

Daughters of Former Racing Magnates Honored at Lexington.

Lexington, Ky., Apr. 23.—For the first time in history ladies occupied the judges' stand here Wednesday. Mrs. John C. Ten Eyck of New York, grand daughter of Gen. John C. Brackenridge, and Mrs. Henry Oliver, daughter of Gen. James F. Robinson, were, by installation of the board of directors, acting as honorary associated judges.

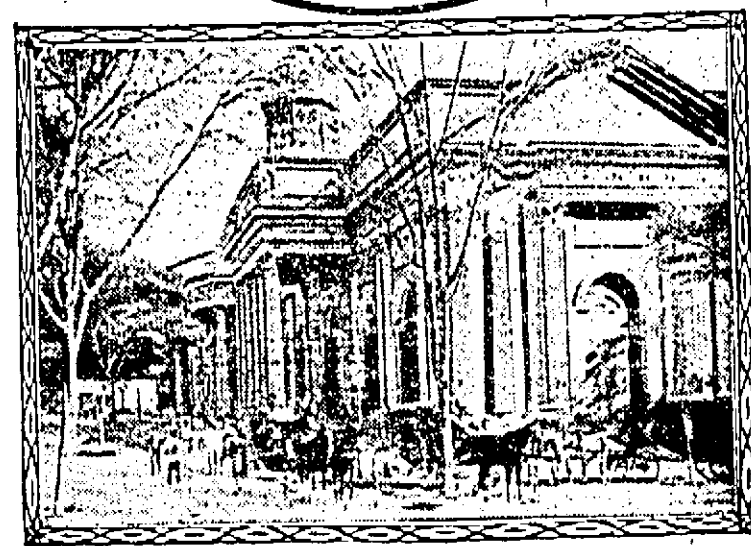

This was out of courtesy to the memory of the two gentlemen named, who half a century ago, were prominently connected with the Kentucky Racing association. Pool room service was missing at the track and even all press reports were held up 20 minutes.

Attempt to Kill State's Witness.

Oakland, Cal., Apr. 23.—A dynamite bomb was exploded Wednesday night under the residence of James L. Gallagher in East Oakland. The entire front of the house was destroyed. Gallagher was a member of the self-concocted hoodling board of supervisors of San Francisco and is an important witness for the prosecution in the bribery trials now pending in San Francisco.

Cleveland, O., Apr. 23.—The McKinley home in Canton has been donated to Bishop Ignatius F. Horstmann of the Cleveland Catholic diocese, to be used as a non-sectarian hospital.

FEDERAL PALACE AT CARACAS, VENEZUELA—PRESIDENT CIPRIANO CASTRO.

The difficulty the United States is having in settling the Venezuela dispute is fast assuming a serious aspect. President Castro has been exasperating in his treatment of the American communications and has shown no disposition to settle the matter amicably. Commenting upon Venezuela's failure to take cognizance of the American suggestion of arbitration Secretary Root in a letter to Minister Russell at Caracas says:

"The answer the Venezuelan government makes to these demands practically refuses consideration. It is positively confined to a simple denial of the correctness of the attitude of this government. The court and contemptuous way in which it ignores or dismisses the serious and respectful representations of the United States produces a painful impression of indifference and disrespect. With the patience however, which has characterized the actions of the government of the United States in the past in all its relations to Venezuela the department of state again instructs you to reiterate the views expressed in the instruction of February 25 last, and to make the following brief reply to each of the points raised by the memorandum of Venezuela."

Venezuela again refused to arbitrate and said it "would view with satisfaction if the government of the United States would consider this question as closed."

dent of Venezuela by the legislative body, and on February 20 the following year was elected president for a term of six years.

Venezuela is constantly causing trouble of one sort or another. During Cleveland's administration the dispute arose over the boundary line, which nearly caused serious trouble. President Roosevelt and congress fully recognize the serious aspect of the present dispute and summary action will undoubtedly be taken.

The Miser!

It is hard to believe that the New Rochelle man who starved to death while saving up $100,000 is now enjoying the fruits of his frugality.

Telegraph in South Africa.

Keeping up a telegraph line in South Africa is no light task. The postmaster general of Rhodesia says in his annual report that, owing to lightning, wild fires, raids by elephants and the theft of wire by natives for the purpose of making bangles, telegraphic interruptions during last year were more frequent than for many years past.

Peculiar Table Dainties.

The Japanese eat cockchafers, and the Chinese are fond of the chrysalis of silkworms, after the silk has been wound off; they fry them and season with pepper, salt and vinegar.

"Implosion."

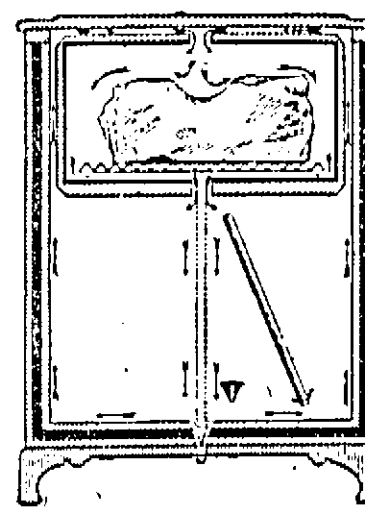

Every one knows what an explosion is; but its opposite, an implosion, is less familiar. At great depths in the sea the conditions are favorable for its production. At 2,500 fathoms the pressure is, roughly speaking, two and a half tons to the square inch; that is to say, several times greater than that exerted by the steam on the piston of a powerful engine.

Why Spider Is Protected.

The origin of the well-known superstition that it is unlucky to kill a spider lies in the fact that it was the custom in ancient Rome to make propitiations from the manner in which cobwebs were woven.

Coldwell's Lawn Mower

A common fault with lawn mowers generally has been that the drive wheels, having too short a bearing, get loose through wear, and no provision has been made for taking it up. The drive wheels of Coldwell's Mower are locked fast to the opposite ends of a steel shaft, which is supported near its ends by ball bearings. The ball bearings are fitted with adjustable cones, by means of which the wheels can always be made to run true, no matter how much the machine is worn.

Another common fault with lawn mowers has been the lack of durability in the ratchets. These usually consist of a single pawl, a small piece of steel, which plays back and forth through the revolving cutter shaft and inside of the revolving cutter gear. This gear is necessarily small, and runs so fast that it is impossible to provide it with a pawl of sufficient size, strength, and wearing properties commensurate with the work required of it.

The ratchets of Coldwell's Mowers consist of three large malleable iron pawls located in each of the two drive gears. These are the largest and slowest moving gears in the machine, thus providing ample room for a suitable ratchet and their slow movement reduces the wear on the pawls to a minimum. (These pawls are guaranteed indestructible through wear.)

Another weak point with lawn mowers has been the liability of its stationary knife to sag in the middle. The cause of this is that there is not room enough between the ground and the revolving cutter to bridge up the knife bar sufficiently to prevent it, and the flat knife used adds nothing to its support.

A further fault with lawn mowers has been that the gears, after a little wear in the bearings, get out of true and cause the machine to run hard. The revolving cutter bearings in Coldwell's mower are provided with split bronze bearings by means of which one can take up all wear, and keep the gears always to their original center and in proper alignment. Prices...$3 to $14 enables him to talk to Janesville people effectively.

More than this, 2,000 dailies are sent out to farmers, and adjoining towns, every evening, and more than 2,000 weeklies, in the same territory, twice a week. The county has a population of 50,000, represented in 10,000 homes. Of this population, Beloit claims 15,000 with 3,000 homes. The Gazette does not seek to circulate in the city of Beloit, but the 7,000 homes, and 25,000 people, in the county, outside the Lino City, it does attempt to serve, and any man who cares to investigate will find that the paper is read by almost every family in the county. Talk with any rural carrier, or examine the mailing lists at the office, or talk to the people themselves, and you will be satisfied.

No mail order catalogue, or no other publication, has so thorough a circulation in the same territory, and this is the territory where Janesville merchants look for business.

The paper also has good lists in Broadhead, Albany, New Glarus and other nearby towns, which naturally trade in Janesville. If you want to talk to the people, the Gazette offers the opportunity. Its advertising columns produce results.

TARIFF REVISION AND MANUFACTURES

"Tariff revision, as applied to different groups of industry in the same general class," says the Wall Street Journal, "is likely to be viewed very differently according to the particular class affected. In many of the main branches of manufactures we have what are known as trusts on the one hand and independent concerns on the other. The former represent large scale organization, abundance of working capital, and more or less advantageous command, if not control over raw materials. They likewise represent highly organized provision for marketing their products at home and abroad.

"The other group includes the independent manufacturer, conducting his business on a comparatively small scale, with a much more limited command over working capital, materials and methods of marketing his output. If the assumption be true that economies of production can be practiced in the large-scale industry which the smaller establishment cannot avail itself of, then the profits of the former are likely to be greater than the latter, especially in markets in which both compete for the same customers. If, therefore, a tariff reduction be provided, which could be profitably borne by the large-scale organizations, there is no assurance that the more numerous independent concerns could prosper under the same rates of import. Nor is it like that congress in its revision of the tariff can be induced to sacrifice independent industries as a class by any tariff reduction which would eliminate profits from their operations.

"This situation indicates a limit beyond which reduction of the tariff as applying to manufacturers is not likely to go. That there will be revision is practically certain. How far revision will result in reduction is problematical. Some reduction is fairly certain, and the extent of it will in large part be determined by what the independent and smaller industries in any particular class of manufacturing can endure without prejudicing their existence. Anything beyond that will imperil independent concerns to the advantage of combinations."

There are always two sides to a question and this view of tariff revision represents the side which many people overlook. "Reverse the tariff and curb the trusts and combines," is the popular war cry, but while the trusts are being curbed, but little thought is given to what might happen to the long list of small manufacturers not protected by a combine.

There is a good deal of sentiment, however, about this sort of argument. People who denounce the Standard Oil company, are the people who have been hurt by competition, and they are so few comparatively, that the protest is weak.

This is true of all kinds of competition. The masses have neither thought nor sympathy, for the man who can't keep up with the procession. The interest displayed is in prices, not in men, and this is so selfish that free trade is demanded by many people, with no thought of what results would follow.

The city of Beloit had an exciting election contest involving several issues, and a merry row resulted. Everybody turned out to vote and a total score of over 3,500 was recorded. The Lino City papers are making odd comparisons between this heavy representation, and the light vote in Janesville. They fail to take into account that there was no issue of any kind, and in most of the wards no contest. The presidential election will make a different showing.

The much-discussed employers' liability bill has become a law, and a new avenue is open for attorneys and liability insurance companies. If the law results in less railway accidents, it will prove a blessing.

The Hardest Thing. The hardest thing to win in the world is your own self-respect.

A Bold Step.

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines. Thus he has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merit, and made them remedies of known composition.

By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his medicines are of such a nature that he is not afraid to subject them to the closest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it, in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of medicine, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free of charge to any person who sends a postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same. From this little book it will be learned that Dr. Pierce's medicines contain no alcohol, narcotics, mineral acids or other poisonous or injurious agents, and that they are made from native, medicinal roots of great value, also that some of the most valuable ingredients contained in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for women, nervous, overworked, run-down, nervous and debilitated women, were employed, long years ago, by the Indians for similar ailments affecting their women. In fact, one of the most valuable medicinal plants entering into the composition of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was known to the Indians as "the woman's root." Our knowledge of the uses of not a few of our most valuable native medicinal plants was gained from the Indians. As a matter of fact, the knowledge of the uses of the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, and retention, restoring, overcoming painful periods, toning up the system and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

YOU KNOW

That you have often met people who had such a small number of teeth as to cause astonishment.

This indicates just what many people are doing today.

Falling to care for their teeth at the proper time.

Little unnoticed decay grows larger just as sure as they are there. Just such cavities, I fill quickly at a price that doesn't cause regret for having it done, and it will please you to know that your teeth are sound.

If you have lost a tooth I can quickly fit another in its place with such art that your best friends will never detect it.

You'll be glad to tell others how careful and satisfactory are my operations.

NEW COUNCIL WILL ORGANIZE MONDAY

Street Roller Question Will Be up for a Decision at the First Regular Meeting Tomorrow.

The new city council will not meet tonight as was the original expectation. Mayor Hendrick has decided to call the session for organization and the transaction of general business next Monday evening. At that time Aldermen-elect Wilbur E. Carle, William W. Watt, and George Richardson will take the seats vacated by retiring members W. H. Merritt, Fred H. Sheldon, and Arthur Jones, and Aldermen Buchholz and Sheridan will enter upon new terms as public servants. Announcement of the new standing committee will be made by the Mayor and the various officers of the city elected. The first regular meeting thereafter will probably be held two weeks from date. One of the urgent problems which the new council will have to solve will be concerned with the purchase of a road roller. The Kelly-Springfield has answered City Clerk Lindgren's notification of the contract beginning May 1 with assurance that one of the machines will be on the ground. The Austin-Western Co. has "received the letter and contents noted" but says nothing about its intention. It is, therefore, something of a question as to whether or not there will be any real contest.

Pests Destroy Tobacco. Tobacco dealers in India are greatly troubled by a moth or fly that finds its way into a box of cigars or tobacco and lays an egg that soon develops into a destructive worm or grub, which bores through the wrapper into the body of the cigar and ruins it. Hardly anything will keep these pests out except to incense each cigar in a bottle or wrap it in heavy tinfoil.

We ought to fear Envy. We ought to fear envy, by which the devil deceived the first man, as it is written, "Christ was crucified through envy, therefore he that envied his neighbor crucified Christ."—The Venerable Bede (672-735).

TWO YOUTHS HELD UNDER SUSPICION

Merle Stamper and Willie Maraden Were Put in "Sweat-box" by City Marshal Appleby.

Merle Stamper, a colored boy, and Willie Maraden, both reform school graduates, were arrested on suspicion by Officer Sam Brown at the direction of City Marshal Appleby last evening. Neither has had any regular employment for several months, but both have been seen lurking about various quarters of the city at late hours almost every evening. For three hours the colored boy was pined with questions relating to any possible knowledge he might have of the recent theft of a quantity of tools from the New Tidy works and the hold robbery of two mail-bags left on the North-Western depot platform. Maraden was also in the sweat-box, but the officers were unable to extract any information of value from the pair. Frank Beck is reported to keep company with these youths, but he was not only not arrested but was not wanted by the police. Stamper and Maraden were still behind the bars this noon and no decision had been reached as to whether they should be held in custody longer than today.

HERE FROM CHICAGO ON THE HONEYMOON

Guy A. Chase and Miss Emma Richter Wedded at High Noon Yesterday by Rev. J. M. Haines.

Guy A. Chase, a former resident and graduate of the Janesville High school, and Miss Emma Richter were wedded in Chicago at high noon yesterday and have arrived here for a visit with the groom's mother and his brother, Charles Chase of the Janesville Wholesale Grocery Co. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. M. Haines of the North Shore Open Church at the bride's home and an elaborate luncheon was served thereafter for the little company of relatives and intimate friends who were present. The bride is a niece of Mr. Richter and Mr. Lane of the Thomas orchestra. Mr. Chase is a successful specialty salesman for Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. and has made many friends in business, military, and social circles of Chicago. He is a member of the 1st Cavalry, U. S. A., and has worked his way from the ranks to a lieutenant in a remarkably short time. Members of his troop tendered an elaborate banquet in his honor at Vogelsang's on Saturday evening and presented him with a beautiful loving-cup. His associates with Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. presented him with a large punch bowl and a leather couch in addition to bestowing upon him and his bride the most and most enthusiastic cheer and on record. Mr. and Mrs. Chase have a pleasant little home, completely furnished, in the North Shore suburb, Rogers Park.

Miss E. Lynch has returned to Janesville after spending the year with relatives and friends in Denver.

FIVE PER CENT
A lady called at our office a few days ago and said that she had been informed that we paid more than three per cent on deposits.
We soon learned that her informant had purchased some five per cent bonds of us and that she had misunderstood.
We do not believe that a bank can safely and profitably pay a higher rate than three per cent on deposits.
However, we have for sale bonds issued by the city of Janesville and the city of Evansville and other bonds which will net the investor from four to five per cent.
All of these bonds are ideal long time investments and we can unhesitatingly recommend them.

CALUMET BAKING POWDER ROAD TO HEALTH

The Cannon That Modernized Japan

By Herbert Kaufman

Business is no longer a man to man contact, in which the merchant and the patron establish a personal bond, any more than battle is a hand-to-hand grapple where bone and muscle and sinew decide the outcome. Trade as well as war has changed in its aspect—both are now fought at long range.

Just as a present day army of heroes would have no opportunity to display the individual valor of its members, just so a merchant who counts upon his personal acquaintanceship for success is a relic of the past—a business dodo.

Japan changed her policy of exclusion to foreigners after a fleet of warships battered down the Satsuma fortifications. The Samurai, who had hitherto considered their blades and bows good enough, discovered that one cannon was mightier than all the swords in creation if they could not get near enough to use them. Japan profited by the lesson. She did not wait until further ramparts were battered to pieces but was satisfied with her one experience and proceeded to modernize her methods.

The merchant who doesn't advertise is pretty much in the same position as that in which Japan stood when her eyes were opened to the fact that times had changed. The long range publicity of a competitor will surely destroy your business as the cannon of the foreigners crumbled the walls of Satsuma. Unless you take the lesson to heart, unless you realize the importance of advertising, not only as a means of extending your business but for defending it as well, you must be prepared to face the consequences of a folly as great as that of a duelist who expects to survive in a contest in which his adversary bears a sword twice the length of his own.

Don't think that it's too late to begin because there are so many stores which have had the advantage of years of cumulative advertising. The city is growing. It will grow even more next year. It needs increased trading facilities just as it's hungry for new neighborhoods.

But it will never again support neighborhood stores. Newspaper advertising has eliminated the strength of being locally prominent, and five cent street car fares have cut out the advantage of being "around the corner." A store five miles away can reach out through the columns of the daily newspaper and draw your next door neighbor to its aisles, while you sit by and see the people on your own block enticed away without your being able to retaliate or supply new customers to take their place.

It is not a question of your ability to stand the cost of advertising but of being able to survive without it. The thing you have to consider is not only an extension of your business but holding what you already have.

Advertising is an investment, the cost of which is in the same proportion to its returns as seeds are to the harvest. And it is just as preposterous for you to consider publicity as an expense as it would be for a farmer to hesitate over purchasing a fertilizer if he discovered that he could profitably increase his crops by employing it.

(Copyright, 1908, by Tell me Company, Chicago.)

Yes; a "To Let" placard in your window might secure for you a tenant of the class that does not read newspapers—if you want that sort.

SCIENCE AND INVENTION

NOVEL RAILROAD SPIKE.

Introducing Prongs Prevent It Being Withdrawn From Tie.

Few people stop to compare the size of the diminutive spikes employed to hold down the tracks of railroads with the immensity of the enormous engines used to draw express trains at lightning speed. The ease with which the tracks are torn from the demonstrators that these tiny spikes are not sufficient for the purpose.

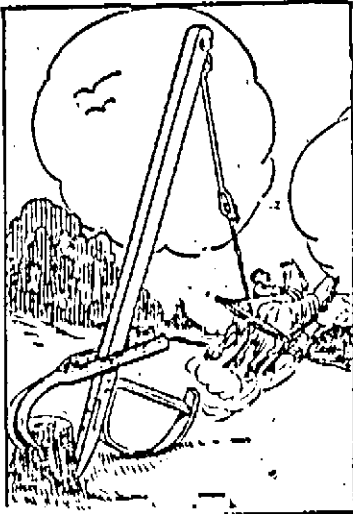

Spike can't be pulled out.

In an endeavor to improve them a Michigan inventor has designed the railroad spike shown here. In size it is no larger than the ordinary spike, but it contains about half a dozen recesses, formed at intervals, into which are secured protruding prongs. The upper ends of the prongs normally are turned outward to catch in the tie and prevent the spike from being pulled out. When the spike is driven into the tie, of course the prongs are depressed in the recesses, not interfering with the operation.

SIMPLE STUMP-PULLER.

With Aid of Pair of Horses These Obstructions Can Be Removed. Every farmer would welcome the introduction of a simple, practical stump-puller which could readily be utilized when wanted. A great many of these now procurable are cumbersome and difficult to operate. This Pulls out stumps.

fault will not be found in the one shown here, the invention of a New York man. It can be easily adjusted to grasp the stump to that it can be readily withdrawn from the ground. Provision is made for the attachment of a swingtree and a pair of horses. With this equipment the farmer should have no difficulty in removing these obstructions from his fields.

SCIENCE NOTES.

The second annual congress of the American School Hygiene Association will convene at Atlantic City on April 17 and 18. The subjects to be discussed will include school hygiene, medical and sanitary inspection of schools and school children, treatment following the medical inspection of school children, nursing systems in public schools and other subjects of allied nature. Papers have been presented by Dr. Martin F. Friedman, health officer, Cleveland, O.; Dr. John J. Cronin, assistant chief medical inspector, New York city; Dr. C. Ward Crampston, assistant physical director, public schools, New York city; Joseph P. Chamberlain, lawyer, San Francisco; R. C. Sturgis, chairman schoolhouse committee, Boston; Dr. Adolph Meyer, director Pathological Holton, secretary State Board of Health, Vermont; Dr. George Mayhew, adjunct professor of physical education, Columbia university; Joseph L. Leu, Boston; A. C. Chandler, executive Medical Society County of New York; Dr. Charles Harrington, secretary Massachusetts State Board of Health; Samuel G. Dixon, commissioner of health, Harrisburg, Pa.; Dr. Miles Standish, professor of ophthalmology, Harvard Medical School and Hon. Curtis Guild, Jr., governor of Massachusetts.

The rotary razor strap is a new device for the convenience of the man who shaves himself. There is a drum or cylinder of sheet steel around which is stretched equal lengths of canvas and leather strapping material, one beginning where the other ends, so that a start can be made with a few strokes on the canvas and a finish on the leather, or leather only is desired. Ordinary razor blades are strapped by inserting in holder, which is a fixed part of the machine, while any of the various wafer blades are slipped first into a secondary holder of thin metal, which in turn is placed in the larger holder. The point is made that owing to the strapping operation is to slightly concave the cutting edge instead of rounding or turning it and that by getting the proper tension no skill is necessary in strapping.

The steam locomotive is not likely to be put out of business by its electric rival. An authority on the subject of transportation says: "At

EDITORS AT GRAND FEAST

ASSOCIATED PRESS AND THE PUBLISHERS BANQUET.

Bryan and Knox Among the Guests—Gen. Taylor Denies Charges of Commercialism.

New York, Apr. 23.—There was a notable gathering of editors and publishers at the Waldorf-Astoria Wednesday night, the occasion being a joint banquet of the Associated Press and the American Newspaper Publishers' association, both of which are holding their annual meetings in this city.

Every state and territory of the United States was represented by those who have earned distinction in the newspaper profession, and their guests included William Jennings Bryan, United States Senator Knox of Pennsylvania, and others of public influence.

At the president's table were Gen. Charles H. Taylor of the Boston Globe, the toastmaster; Herman Hilder, editor and publisher of the New York State Journal, and president of the American Publishers' association; Frank B. Noyes of the Chicago Record-Herald, and president of the Associated Press; Senator Knox, Mr. Bryan, an Bishop Frederick Burgess of the Episcopal diocese of Long Island, Rabbi Stephen S. Wise of the Free Synagogue, Patrick Francis Murphy, officials of the two organizations and others.

Mr. Hilder explained that he had promised not to make a speech. Accordingly he introduced "one of the most distinguished journalists of this country, the editor of the Boston Globe, Gen. Taylor."

Gen. Taylor answered the charge that a tinge of commercialism had come into the press in the last quarter of a century. After pointing out that whereas an eight-page paper 25 years ago was sold for four cents a copy, and the reader now receives from eight to twenty-four pages for one cent, he added that there was not a one-cent paper in the country but that was worth two cents. What journalists really needed, he said, was a copper half-cent, in order that they might go the limit and give a two or three-cent paper for half the present price.

How many educated people there are who have no more than a peasant's vocabulary. They do not use the words that a peasant uses, but they do not improve upon them. They still go on saying: "How amusing!" "How lovely!" "How nice!" to the end of the chapter. Nobody can be interesting who is always working a limited vocabulary. —British Weekly.

though electric locomotives would be used in the future in densely populated districts, the extension of railways into districts now sparsely populated would call for a steadily increasing number of steam locomotives. The increase in population which is sure to take place in the United States would call for a great increase in the number of both steam and electric locomotives, an increase in the number of tracks on trunk lines and the canalizing of our principal waterways to take care of the traffic.

Many efforts have been directed to the solution of some mechanical means of loading and unloading vessels at the wharf, but because of the variety in shape, size and weight of the packages handled it has proven a difficult problem. An electric conveyor or bridge is being experimented with in Norfolk, Va., and one or two other places which seems to indicate success. Two lattice trusses, 35 to 50 feet long, carry the conveyor, which consists of an endless travelling platform (fitted with cleats) of wooden strips attached to a steel cable, which runs on steel sheaves having roller bearings. The motor and driving gear are mounted at the middle of the conveyor, between the trusses. The small wheels at the side are for use in moving the conveyor about the dock, it being hauled in the same way as an ordinary gangway. The machine can be driven in either direction to deliver packages to or from the vessel, and may be fitted with a counter device to register the number of packages handled. Horizontal extension can convey the packages along the dock to any desired point.

FINE BALL AT LOS ANGELES

OFFICERS OF FLEET GUESTS AT BRILLIANT FUNCTION.

Last Big Event of Battleships' Stay There—Enlited Men Have Fun, Despite Rain.

Los Angeles, Apr. 23.—A ball rivaling in its brilliant effects an inaugural function at Washington brought to a close the fifth day of the stay of the American battleship fleet at the ports of Los Angeles.

The dance was given in the immense Shriners' auditorium, in honor of the admirals and officers of the fleet, and more than 1,200 couples took part in the grand march, which was led by Rear Admiral Charles H. Thomas and Mrs. Adna R. Chaffee, wife of Gen. Chaffee, chairman of the officers' entertainment committee. Suppers were served at 11:30 p. m. and at one a. m. in a dining-room which was decorated in a fashion almost as elaborate as the auditorium itself.

The ball was the last big public function of the fleet's stay. It brought to one exceptionally happy conclusion a day of laden skies and heavy showers which caused a postponement of most of the outdoor celebrations. More than 3,000 blue jackets and marines came ashore in the early morning and, while disappointed that the principal features of the day had to be abandoned, they had a good time despite the rain. Three-fourths of the fleet entertainment fund raised in this city has been spent on the unclouded moon.

Washington, April 23.—Gen. Bell, chief of staff, has issued instructions to Gen. Brush, commanding the department of the Columbia to have the available troops in the immediate vicinity of Seattle assist the citizens of that city in the reception and entertainment of the officers and sailors of the Atlantic fleet on its coming visit to that city.

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. A. L. Berry of Chicago, president. Miss Clark of Chicago was acting secretary.

H. Forsythe of Chicago; president, Mrs. Albert L. Berry, Chicago; recording secretary, Mrs. A. W. McClure, Chicago; corresponding secretary, Mr. G. Willis, Chicago; secretary of literature, Mrs. H. MOUNTAINEERS JOIN BANDITS.

Rising Against Russia on Persian Frontier Spreads Rapidly.

St. Petersburg, Apr. 23.—The situation on the Persian frontier is considered here to be steadily becoming more serious despite the check to the Persian brigands, when the Russian forces drove the bandits back with heavy losses. The rising is gradually spreading, the other mountaineers now flocking to the assistance of the Shikastan and Beglavin tribes, against whom the operations are being conducted.

A steaming hot meal in ten minutes. And what do you know that's so good?

Put the can of Van Camp's in hot water. Then open it, and there is your ready-cooked meal steaming hot. A delicious meal without work, without waiting. Our beans come to you just as fresh and as savory as when they came out of our ovens. And you've never tasted beans that approach them.

Let us cook for you. We are experts on beans, and we have the facilities

We have spent 47 years in learning how best to prepare baked beans with tomato sauce. No wonder we know. But more than knowledge is needed. Our ovens are heated to 245 degrees. It requires that fierce heat to break down the fibre, and you cannot apply it. Home-cooked beans, for that reason, are hard to digest.

Van Camp's pork and beans baked with tomato sauce

We use Michigan beans, selected by hand, for which we pay $2.10 per bushel. That's seven times the price of some beans.

We could buy tomato sauce, ready made, for exactly one-fifth what we spend to make it.

Then we bake the beans, the tomato sauce and the pork all together. That gives our delicious blend.

FORD CAR A PERFECT AUTOMOBILE

4 cylinder 14 h. p. "S" Roadster $750.

The Ford car is known as a quality car; a dependable, efficient, roadable car to which any owner can point with pride as his car. That we have been able to combine quality with low price, is due solely to our manufacturing facilities and quantity production. It would not build the same car for the present price you would still get the same car but the price would be raised. Under no circumstances is quality subjected to price.

Without entering into a technical description of the car (you can find that in our catalog) here is what has made 16000 Ford owners 16000 friends of the Ford Motor Co.

They have demonstrated to their own satisfaction that the Ford car is actually a better car than any of their friends owning other makes have bought; that it lasts as long; goes as far or further; climbs the steepest hills and higher hills too; goes as fast and faster if desired; costs as little to operate and for repairs and looks as neat and trim as any other car.

Then on top of all that, the first cost plus two years' operating cost just about equals the price the other man paid.

We want you to investigate for yourself the truth of the foregoing—make us prove it for it means several hundred dollars to you, to say nothing of the satisfaction derived from a perfect car.

A demonstration is a revelation—call on us any time and afford us an opportunity of showing you. Open nights now.

A Whistling Philosopher.

"I don't whistle because I'm happy," said one of the Georgia brethren, "but just to fool myself into thinking that I am. Then, too, the world loves the fellow that whistles on the way—just as we love the wind that sings or the laughing leaves more than the hurricane that howls across the road!" —Atlanta Constitution.

No Action on Coeducation.

creased by providing separate classes

To Stop Piles Try This.

Piles get instant relief, when Dr. Shoop's Magie Ointment is applied. It's a Pile Cure, remember, and it is good for nothing else whatever except piles.
General Ointments, for many uses, can't possibly cure piles. A pile ointment must be specific. Every aim of its maker must be directed specifically toward piles alone.
Says Dr. Shoop, "I make three valuable ointments, and yet, one only—Dr. Shoop's Magie Ointment—will bring relief to pile sufferers. Even then, in old chronic cases, originating because of a torpid liver, with biliousness, I prescribe my Dr. Shoop's Restorative internally while using Magie Ointment locally or externally. Keep in mind this fact, please, that the large blood vessels of the liver originate in the walls of the rectum, where piles arise. Obstruct these vessels in the liver and piles instantly appear. Dr. Shoop's Restorative corrects stomach and liver sluggishness, hence its value as an aid to Magie Ointment in the treatment of obstinate cases of piles.

national policy, the regents deferred action until the faculty has an opportunity to consider the question and to report the results of its investigation to the board. A committee of professors and scholars with Dean E. A. Hoge as chairman is now considering the matter, but owing to the complexity of the subject will probably not be able to report for some time.

MONROE LIKED SONG

BY COL. KIMBERLEY

As Rendered by John Mulla at Annual Easter Military Ball Last Monday Evening.

The annual Easter military ball and concert given by the Spanish American War Veterans at Monroe Monday evening proved to be a brilliant event in every particular. Comment by the Monroe Times on one of the features will be of especial interest to local people. "If there was any publicity shown in the applause of the audience," says that newspaper, "it was when Mr. John Mulla sang. The audience gave him a generous hand" when he was led to the platform by very Hedges and the applause was a high note at the close of his thrilling war songs. The selection he rendered was one composed by Col. E. O. Kimberley of Janesville entitled "Wisconsin's Who Were the Blues" and was sent to Mr. Mulla by the National Soldiers' League especially for this occasion. "Jack" Mulla, who is an old guardsmen himself, a good soldier, and the champion boxer of the old First regiment in the early days when it was led by the late Col. Sam Lewis, knew just the right spirit with which the thrilling war song should be sung.
Mr. Mulla was in good voice and the range of the piece was just to his like-ing. He is to be complimented on his able rendition and we feel sure that the composer heard him, he would only have been pleased with the interpretation placed upon a poem that has become famous in Wisconsin and known throughout the country
throughout the singing of it by Col.
Kimberley, the composer. Both the words and music of the composition are by the Janesville man and the Jahberg Music Co. of Cincinnati recently published it with a photograph of the composer on the cover.

Evansville, April 22.—On last Thursday the library books owned for public use today noon and will be open every afternoon from one that time the building will be turned over to the city. The committee includes P. C. Wilder, Geo. L. Pullen,

It was a large and very appreciative audience that listened to the concert given by the Evansville band last evening. The music was promoted excellent and a wish was expressed by many that these con-

The dance was well patronized by home people, and many familiar faces from out of town were to be noticed in the gathering, as well as many who were strangers to the majority.

The supper at Hilsa's was very nice.

SKIN CURE A SIMPLE WASH.

External Remedy for Eczema Sufferers Greatly Simplifies the Treatment.

If you are suffering from any burning itching skin disease, the only way to cure it is to go right at the real trouble—cure the skin itself.
Thousands of patients have suffered for months in vain attempts to doctor their blood when the whole trouble was local feeling upon the skin and causing the unsightly blotches and sores.

Skin specialists now prescribe a simple liquid wash, easy to apply, which gives instant relief. This remedy is composed of all of winter green to which are added healing vegetable remedies. Oil of winter-green alone will not cure, but a corte of experts in Chicago, headed by a noted specialist, experimented with other medicinal properties until they found the proper preparation. The result of their efforts is called D. D. D.
Prescription, a sure specific for the cure of skin diseases.

Here is only one instance of what D. D. D. Prescription has done: "My little girl's head was a running sore, D. D. D. Prescription has cured her sore and well."—B. L. Hipp, Phil
Campbell, Ala.

If you are suffering from any skin disease, would it not pay you to try one bottle of D. D. D. Prescription?
You probably have spent many times the cost of one bottle vainly trying to stop that awful burning itch.

THE CAPTAIN OF the KANSAS

By LOUIS TRACY.
Author of "The Wings of the Morning," "The Pillar of Light," Etc.
COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY EDWARD J. CLODE

"Haven't heard so. You may be sure there's one waiting for him somewhere, I know. There's no dodging luck, good or bad. I thought it was going to be that friend of yours, but she's off the register, poor lass. There! I didn't mean that. I'm an idiot, for sure. You see, I don't talk much, as a rule, Miss Maxwell, or I should have better than to chit-chat like a blazin'—huh, like a babbling fool."

Elsie turned her face aside when he mentioned Isabel. It seemed to her sensitive soul an almost unfair thing that she should be gossiping about trifling things when the girl who had commenced this unlikely voyage in such high spirits was lying beneath that grim sea-bolted smiling headland. Yet she knew that Boyle meant no harm by his chatter. He was weak from his wound and perhaps a trifle light-headed as the result of being brought from the stuffy saloon to the airy and sunlit chart room. So she crushed a sorrow that was unavailing and strove to put the matter at his ease again.

"I do not find any harm in your remark," she said resolutely. "Were it possible I should have been very pleased to see Miss Barling married to a man of strong character like Captain Courtenay. By the way, who is keeping watch on deck?"

"The doctor was here with me until a few minutes ago. Then the skipper telephoned him. I guess there is some one on the lookout, but you might just as well ask an eye-showerman. I'm not supposed to move yet."

"I wringed myself in his chair, for the spirit was willing, but Elsie made him lie quiet. She rearranged his pillow and stepped on to the bridge, by walking from port to starboard and traversing the short length of the spar deck she could command a view of the bay and of most parts of the ship. She heard the dog scuffling down the companion. On reaching the after rail she saw the captain engaged in earnest, low-toned conversation with Tollenmache and Walker. They were standing on the main deck near the engine room door and examining something which resembled a lump of coal.

Christobal appeared, carrying a bucket of water, into which the lumps were placed by Walker, who handled them very gingerly. After a slight delay he began to crumble one in his fingers, still keeping it in the water, until finally he drew forth what Elsie recognized at once as a stick of dynamite.

Though it was blackened by contact with the coal, she was certain of its real nature. She had visited a great many mines, and the officials always scared the ladies of the party by telling them what would happen if the explosives were to blow up. She had even seen dynamite placed in the sun to dry, as it is very susceptible to moisture, and she wondered, naturally enough, why such a dangerous agent should be hidden in or disguised as a piece of coal.

She thought that the men should be made aware of her presence, so she leaned over and said:

"May I ask what you four are plotting?"

They looked at her in surprise. They were so engrossed in their discovery

"In which bunker was the coal placed which we shipped at Valparaiso?" that they had eyes for nothing else. Walker straightway plunged the saws-shaped gray stick into the water again.

"What are you doing with that dynamite?" she demanded. "Do you intend to visit Señor Suarez's mine? If so, please take me. I am very poor."

It was Courtenay who answered. "Are you alone?" he asked.

"Mr. Boyle is in the chart house."

"I know, but is any one else up there?"

"No."

"Then we shall join you at once." Notwithstanding the serious demeanor of the men, Elsie was far from guessing what had happened. But she was soon enlightened.

"In which bunker was the coal placed which we shipped at Valparaiso?" Courtenay asked Boyle.

"In the forward cross bunker," was the instant answer.

"And that was the first coal used in the furnaces?"

"Yes, sir."

The captain's tone was official, exceedingly so, and the chief officer took the cue from his superior in rank. "Did we get up steam with it?"

"There might have been a hundred-weight or two lying loose in the stokehold, but for all practical purposes we have used nothing but the Valparaiso bunker since we left port."

"The rest of our coal was shipped at Coronel?"

"Yes, sir."

"You hear? It is exactly as I have told you," said Courtenay, glancing at the others. "I must explain to you, Mr. Boyle, that I wished you to state the facts in front of witnesses before I gave you my reasons for cross-examining you on the matter. Mr. Walker and I have been certain all along that the furnaces were blown up willfully. Now our suspicions are proved. This morning, after a careful scrutiny, we came across a number of lumps of coal cleverly constructed out of small pieces glued together. In the center of each lump was a stick of dynamite, protected by an asbestos wrapper. It was undoubtedly the intent of some miscreant that a number of these lumps should be fed into the furnaces. This actually occurred, as we know, but by the mercy of Providence the ship did not experience the full power of the explosion or she must have sunk like a stone."

"Huh," grunted Boyle. "Who holds the insurance?"

"The shippers of the cargo, of course—Messrs. Barling, Thompson & Miguel."

"Worth a quarter of a million sterling, isn't it?"

"Yes."

"Huh—it's a lot of money."

There was a momentary silence. Elsie's eyes grew larger, and she became rather pale. As was her habit when puzzled, she placed a finger on her lips. Christobal noted her action. Indeed, he missed her of her characteristic habits or expressions. He laughed quietly.

"I think you are quite right, Miss Maxwell," he said. "This is one of the many instances in which silence is golden."

Taken by surprise, she blushed and dropped her hand. But Courtenay said promptly:

"There are some instances in which silence may be misinterpreted. Let me state at once that the shippers of the valuable cargo on board the Kansas will suffer a serious financial reverse if the ship is lost. Two thousand tons of copper may be worth a considerable fixed sum, but the lack of the metal on the London market at the end of January will have far-reaching consequences in a light against the bull clique in Paris, and that is why Mr. Barling made this heavy shipment."

"Those consequences could be foreseen and discounted," put in Tollenmache dryly.

"Exactly. But by whom—by the man who sent his only daughter as a passenger on this vessel?"

Every one scouted that notion. But Tollenmache, though disavowing any thought of Mr. Barling as a party to the scheme, stuck to his gun.

"Somebody will make a pile when the Kansas is reported missing," he said.

"The insurance money will not be paid for a long time," Courtenay explained.

"No, but the copper market will respond instantly."

"Then the process has commenced already. The Kansas should have been reported yesterday from Sandy Point. The news that she has not arrived will soon reach the nearest cable station. There will be terrific excitement at Lloyd's when that becomes known. By the way, does any one here know a man named Ventana?"

"It is a name common enough in Chile," said Christobal.

"If you mean Señor Pedro Ventana, who is associated with Mr. Barling in mining matters, I am acquainted with him," said Elsie.

They all looked at her, and some of them wondered perhaps why her smiling eyes had lost their mirth. Yet there was nothing unreasonable in the mere fact that a certain Chilean named Ventana, who had business relations with Mr. Barling, should make the acquaintance of Isabel Barling's friend. As quickly as it had arisen the feeling of strangeness passed.

Courtenay even laughed. Elsie as the Jonah of the ship was a quiet conceit.

"I mentioned Ventana because I was told he took some part of the insurance on his own account," he explained. "That he was a member of Barling's copper syndicate and indeed was spoken of as a mining engineer of high repute. Believe me, I was not jumping to conclusions on that account."

"I know him to be a very bad man," said Elsie slowly. Her face was white and her eyes downcast. It was evident that the sudden introduction of Ventana's personality was distressing to her, but Courtenay, preoccupied with the steadily attempted made to sink his ship, did not observe this feature of a peculiar discussion.

"Had I what sense, Miss Maxwell?" he asked unguardedly.

"In the most loathsome sense. He is evil minded, vicious, altogether detestable. If Mr. Barling knew his character as I know it, Ventana would not be allowed to enter his office."

"Pedro Ventana?" interrupted Christobal. "Is he a half-caste, a tall, brown-skinned man, who affects an American drawl when he speaks English—a man prominent in Santiago society and in mining circles generally?"

"Yes," said Elsie.

"That is odd, exceedingly so. I once heard a rumor—but perhaps it is unfair to mention it in this connection. Yet it cannot hurt any one if I state that Isabel Barling and he were—well, how shall I put it?—at any rate, there was a lively summer hotel sort of attachment between them."

"Isabel has never told me that," said Elsie, turning herself for a personal disclosure which was obviously disagreeable. "I own a small ranch near Quillota, and as there was a chance of copper being located there Mr. Barling advised me to employ Ventana as an expert prospector. Indeed, Mr. Barling himself sent Ventana to examine the property and report on it. He came to see me. He told me there were no minerals of value on my land, but I could never free myself from him afterward. In fact, I am running away from him now."

She uttered the concluding words with a genuine indignation which forthwith evaporated in its unconscious humor. Everybody laughed, even the girl herself, and Boyle grunted:

"Huh—shows the beggar's good taste anyhow."

Courtenay perhaps thought that if he encountered Ventana again he would take the opportunity to reason with him in the approved manner of the high seas. And as there was no need to prolong a topic which caused Elsie any sort of embarrassment he hastened to say:

"I have brought names into the discussion largely to show what a doubtful field is opened once we begin to suspect without real cause. The only witness of any value we have on board is Frascuelo, and his evidence merely goes to prove a secret design to interfere with or control the tripping of the bunker. That particular hatch must be sealed and the specimens we have secured put away under lock and key. I feel assured that the remainder of our coal is above suspicion. We can carry the inquiry no further while we remain here. Now, Mr. Walker, you have something of a more cheering nature to communicate, I think."

What Dyspepsia Does

Undigested food irritates the stomach, causing pain. It ferments and forms gas. It decays and breeds germs, to load the blood with poisons. All these results cease instantly when Kodol digests the food.

Don't try to make the stomach do what it can't do. Don't stimulate it; don't drive it to action. It is like whipping a tired horse.

Let it rest, as you would a lame ankle. And, like the lame ankle, the stomach will cure itself. In indigestion the stomach lining is inflamed. And the undigested food, by becoming hard, irritates the lining. That is the cause of the pain.

So long as that irritation is allowed to continue, there is no hope of curing the stomach.

Some find that they can't digest all food. So they limit themselves to the food that they can digest.

That means partial starvation. The needs of the body call for variety in food. One cannot diet without starving some part, without losing some needed nourishment.

Nourishment will do more than anything else to correct the weakness. It is vital that you supply it.

The right way is this: Eat what you need of the food that you want. Then let Kodol, for a little time, do the digesting. Nature will do the rest.

You will say, perhaps, that you have tried digesters before. But you are mistaken.

You may have tried pepsin, but pepsin digests only albumen. You may have tried any of the numerous digesters which depend almost solely on pepsin. They digest but part of the food. It is the only way to do all that the strongest digestive organs can do.

The results are immediate. Kodol is liquid, like the digestive juices. Its action begins as soon as it enters the stomach. Even before that, for in the mouth it starts the flow of saliva.

You don't want to always depend on artificial digesters. We understand that. But you must help the stomach while it needs help. Else it will always need it.

Let the stomach rest for a time, just as you would any organ that needs to recuperate. That is all that is necessary and all that you can do. But the rest must be complete. Half-way measures will not prove satisfactory. You must supply all the digestive elements, not part of them. Kodol alone can do that.

This is easily proved. Try Kodol, then try something else. You can easily note the difference.

Some digestive elements require the liquid form. They must be preserved in glass. In any other form, it is quite impossible to do what Kodol does.

Regard the Infinite Goodness.

What the particular thoughts or temptations are that disquiet you, I know not; but whatsoever they are, look above them, and labor to fix your eye on that infinite goodness which never falters them that, by faith, do absolutely rely and rest upon it.—Robert Leighton.

Above Utility.

Science no more than poetry finds its best warrant in its utility. Truth and right are above utility in all realms of truth and action.—Charles William Eliot.

Governor Charles E. Hughes of New York at Right and Lieutenant Governor Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler of New York at Left.

Albany, N. Y., April 21.—Never in the political history of the United States has a more peculiar situation developed than that involving Governor Hughes and Lieutenant Governor Chanler of New York state. In the first place it has been a peculiar and unusual situation that a Republican governor and a Democratic lieutenant governor should be housed in the same state capitol. The unusualness is now carried further in the possibility, if not the probability, that these two heads of New York state's government may now oppose each other for the vice presidency of the United States.

Up to a few weeks ago Governor Hughes was considered a potential presidential possibility. The sources of his
